Our new DC-6A Cargoliner ... your freighter!

- its load capacity: more than 25 000 lbs.; space: 5000 cu.ft.
- 124" wide/78" high ... these door measurements solve all loading problems
- the reinforced metal floor and the attachment devices for cargo ensure safe transportation, even of particularly heavy parcels
- perishable goods travel to advantage on the Cargoliner. Its efficient air conditioning plant protects them from changes in temperature
- and of course: airborne radar, the good weather nose, which means entirely vibration-free transportation of your goods
- boxes for large animals, suspension devices for consignments of clothing, removal containers etc. are additional transport facilities of our Cargoliner service designed to save freight charges

General information

Reservations. Seats should be reserved as early as possible at SWISSAIR offices or at an approved travel agency, according to route and season well in advance or shortly before commencement of travel. Bookings are only firm after payment of the fare.

In the event of a stopover passengers are recommended to have their onward or return reservation confirmed immediately on arrival. For North Atlantic flights and flights within North America this reconfirmation is absolutely necessary 48 hours before departure at the latest. If a reservation has not been reconfirmed by that time the seat already booked can be cancelled and resold.

If passengers do not want to avail themselves of seats booked they are requested to cancel this space as early as possible. If without previous cancellation a seat remains unused part of the fare at least is forfeited.

After previous agreement trips can be interrupted at most airports for a short or long period.

The SWISSAIR offices for bookings, confirmation of bookings and cancellations are listed on pages 26—32.

Prompt appearance of passengers for departure. Passengers are urgently requested to repair to the town terminal or airport the very latest at the times indicated under "Booking Offices and Town Terminals" (pages 26—32) for clearance formalities and preparations of the start.

No handling can be done after the time fixed and passengers arriving too late will be excluded from transportation. In addition they lose claim to full refund of the fare.

Passport, visa, custom duty, health and currency regulations. Passengers themselves are responsible for compliance with the relevant regulations in force. Ticket sales offices will gladly give all available details without, however, being able to assume responsibility for completeness and correctness of such information. Passengers are therefore above all referred to the respective consulates.

Seat reservations shall only be made if all visas necessary for the trip have been obtained or promised for a definite time.

Passengers without complete papers may be debarred from transportation.

Transport conditions. Carriage is subject to the general conditions of contract of the airline companies. Passengers may inspect these conditions at the companies' offices. Moreover, an extract from these conditions is attached to air tickets.

No guarantees are given for adherence to timetables which may be altered without advance notice. The departure and arrival times shown are only approximate and do not form a part of the contract of carriage. Airline companies will not assume any guarantee for observance of definite times of transportation and connections. Employees, agents or representatives of airline companies are not authorized to give binding assurances in this respect to passengers.

The liability is governed by the relevant regulations of the general conditions of contract of SWISSAIR.

If, while travelling on a SWISSAIR liner, a passenger with a valid ticket meets with an accident, SWISSAIR assumes in advance a voluntary limited liability amounting to Sw.Frs. 36 000.— per adult passenger with near relatives in the event of death (special regulations apply to children up to 12 years of age, as well as to persons without near relatives) and in the case of permanent total disablement a guarantee amounting also to Sw.Frs. 36 000.— with corresponding reduction for partial permanent disablement; for actual loss of income resulting from the passenger's working activity and for healing expenses together a daily total allowance up to Sw.Frs. 25.— is guaranteed during the period of one year from the date of the accident.

In certain cases SWISSAIR reserves the right to decline or reduce this voluntary liability guarantee, so in particular in cases of contributory negligence or pre-existing disablement or illness of the passenger meeting with the accident. Furthermore, it does not apply to accidents due to war risks.

The guaranteed indemnity will be subtracted from any claim raised against SWISSAIR, its employees or auxiliary staff. The regulations of the relevant insurance policy govern this voluntary limited liability guarantee.

Supplementary personal accident insurances can be effected at ticket sales offices on payment of the respective premiums.

Previous consent of the airline company has to be obtained for the transportation of sick or disabled passengers and unaccompanied children.

Reductions

1. Round Trips: A reduction of 10% on the one-way fares is granted for round trip tickets purchased.
2. Circle Trips: Also for circular tours leading back to the initial point of departure a reduction is granted on the one-way fares.
3. Children under 2 years of age: If travelling in the company of adults pay 10% of the fare provided one child only per passenger paying full fare travels and no separate seat is needed.
4. Children from 2 to 12 years old: (and younger children for whom seats are required or children in excess of the permitted number per accompanying adult paying full fare) pay half the adult fares.
5. Family Rebates for North Atlantic travel: During the off-season from October 15 to March 31, members of a family travelling together are granted a special family rebate. Particulars from travel agencies.
6. Group Travel: Participants in private groups of at least 10 and at the most 14 persons are granted a 5% fare rebate for travel within Europe. This rebate is increased to 10% for groups of at least 15 participants. Full information from ticket sales offices.
7. Scholars and students: On certain conditions scholars and students aged from 12 to 26 years are granted a special fare rebate of 25% on the entire SWISSAIR network (North Atlantic excepted). Conditions to be obtained from ticket sales offices.
8. To June 30 and from October 15 (North Atlantic) and resp. to June 30 (South Atlantic) emigrants from Europe (with the exception of some countries) who have obtained an immigrant visa for the USA, Canada, or some South American countries, not more than 6 or 4 months resp., prior to date of travel, will be granted a reduction on the one way fare of 40% on Tourist Class and 30% on Economy Class flights (North Atlantic). Free baggage allowance by way of exception 30 kg. Particulars from travel agents.
9. Combined air/sea travel: With most of the steam navigation companies sailing the Mediterranean and South Atlantic as well as some companies sailing to the Far East SWISSAIR has made special agreements allowing a 10% rebate to be granted for combined travel on air and sea sectors. For further particulars apply to ticket sales offices. (This rebate will presumably be applicable until October 31, 1959.)
10. Inclusive Tours: Special, reduced fares apply to SWISSAIR flights included in certain inclusive tours organised by travel agencies.

Baggage. Adults—as well as children travelling on a ticket at 50% of the full fare—are entitled to a free baggage allowance of 30 kg (66 lbs) in the De Luxe and First Class or to 20 kg (44 lbs) in the Tourist and Economy Class. In addition to this free baggage allowance each passenger may take into the cabin free of charge: 1 small lady's handbag, 1 coat or overcoat, 1 travelling rug, 1 umbrella or walking stick, 1 small camera and a pair of binoculars, a reasonable quantity of reading matter and baby food destined for consumption during the flight, as well as an infant's basket.

All baggage in excess of this free baggage allowance will be charged per kilo at 1% of the respective one-way First Class fare.

If large quantities of baggage are carried advance notice must be given. It may be of advantage to send it as unaccompanied freight. On some routes the applicable charges have been reduced considerably. However, such baggage must be shipped in advance and no guarantee will be given for carriage on a certain flight. In addition a lot of formalities have to be complied with at destination and delivery may be delayed.

To avoid mix-ups passengers are requested to mark their baggage with their name and domicile.

Passengers may take on board only one small piece of baggage suitable to be put below or in front of their seat. All other baggage will be carried in the baggage compartments.

Baggage may not contain any dangerous articles, such as inflammables, radioactive material, corrosives, unsuitably packed liquids or other substances giving off a powerful smell.

Some countries do not allow the carriage of cameras or film cameras in the hand baggage.

The transportation of animals is subject to consent of the airline company.

During the flight passengers' baggage is not insured against loss or damage; on certain conditions the carriers have to assume merely a limited liability.

Passengers are recommended to effect a special baggage insurance at ticket sales offices.

Meals and refreshments. If time permits meals or refreshments will be served during the flight in accordance with particulars given in the timetables. In the De Luxe and First Class alcoholic beverages and cigarettes are in addition included in the fare.

If due to lack of immediate connection a passenger has to stop over night, and provided he holds a firm onward booking for either a connection between two SWISSAIR flights or between a SWISSAIR long-distance flight and any other flight, SWISSAIR assumes, apart from some exceptions, hotel accommodation and board at the transit airport until departure of the next scheduled flight, but not for longer than 24 hours (48 hours for intercontinental traffic). Particulars from any SWISSAIR representative.

Validity of tickets. Normal fare tickets for one-way, round and circle trips are valid for 12 months. Special fares apply to a shorter period entered in the ticket.

Transfers. Transfers for change of booking, routing, class, destination of validity will be made by SWISSAIR at the request of passengers if early application is received, and any fare differences will be charged.

Car hire. At most airports cars can be hired through SWISSAIR and its agents if application is made in good time. Particulars—also of rates and conditions—can be obtained from ticket sales offices.

Additional information. SWISSAIR offices and all approved travel agencies are gladly willing to give any additional information required.

Passenger fares

The following pages show the First, Tourist and Economy Class fares between the points listed. Taxes and any other government charges to be paid by passengers, as well as fares for surface traffic from and to airports, will be collected separately.

Since June 1 an airport service charge of Sw. Frs. 3.— will be levied on all passengers departing on international flights from Geneva and Zürich airports. Children up to the age of 12 years and transit passengers are exempted.

The perfect meal 20 000 feet up

The Swissair chefs are proud to uphold the great tradition of the world-famed Swiss hotels. Delicious meals, prepared with all their skill and care enhance the enjoyment of your flight.

Here is a specimen menu – one of many – for a typical first-class meal served on board our transatlantic aircraft.
