Complete Sleeper-Planes

Transcontinental Service

(See Table 9)

THE utmost in travel comfort is now provided on American Airlines' transcontinental route with the inauguration of air sleeper service. These new twelve passenger sleeper-planes contain six sections, each convertible into an upper and lower berth. For day travel these berths become two over-sized lounge type seats with ample leg room. Individual windows, reading lights, service call buttons, ash-trays, magazine pockets and ventilators are features of this latest type air transport.

The full length, comfortable berths, comparable in every respect with those of deluxe sleeping cars, are made up enroute at passenger's request. Berths have individual ventilation, clothes nets and hangers. Baggage is available at the foot of each berth, being carried on a special luggage rack.

These new Curtiss Condor planes of advance design have a top speed of 190 miles an hour, are equipped with every known aid to air navigation and are manned by two long experienced pilots.

There is no extra charge for this new sleeper-plane service.

On American Airlines' transcontinental route, wake in the morning completely rested, refreshed, and ready for the day's business or pleasure.
